His Question Answered.

The Southern Asphalt Paving Company of Baltimore, Md., has been informed by the District Commissioners, through its general manager, Mr. Arthur L. BOY SERIOUSLY HURT

Cartridge.

Wounded in the Neck by Wadding of Blank

The Affair Conceded to Have Been an Accident-The Child Rest-

Emmett Hutchinson, seven years old, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon by the accidental discharge of a rifle in the hands of William Palmer. The shooting took place at the house of Mr. Robert S. Hutchirson, the boy's father, No. 1001 K strict northwest, where Palmer boards. Palmer was cleaning the rifle, and the little boy, who showed a child's interest in firearms, remained near him. When he had the weapon oiled and in good condition, his finger accidentally touched the trigger and discharged a blank cartridge. The wadding from the cartridge entered the boy's neck and inflicted an ugly wound. Had there been a bullet in the cartridge the boy would doubtless have lost his life. As soon as possible the little sufferer was hurried to the office of a physician in the neighborhood, and upon the latter's advice he was soon afterward removed to the Emergency Hospital. Because of the ap-parently serious condition of the victim, Policeman Green arrested Palmer and took him to the first precinct station, where he was detained in the witness room.

Why Arrest Was Made.

That the affair was an accident no one loubted, but the police thought best to hold Palmer until something ever definite about the boy's injury could be ascertained. At the Emergency Hospital the doctors succeeded in removing particles of the wadding from the wound, and the patient rested well during the night. This morning he appeared much better, and the physicians were more hopeful of his ultimate recovery than they were last night.

Palmer, who is twenty years old, is a member of the D. C. N. G., and it was a rifle belonging to the guard that he was cleaning when the unfortunate snot was cleaning when the unfortunate snot was fired. He was particularly fond of the lit-tle boy, and regrets very much the sad oc-currence. It was not the desire of the boy's currence. It was not the desire of the boy's father that Palmer should be arrested, for he was confident the affair was purely an This afternoon it was reported that the boy's condition showed further signs of improvement. Palmer is still held at the first precinct. It is probable he will be released when the patient is reported out

A COFFEE LIVER.

PECULIAR EFFECTS OF THE BEVERAGE. Unfortunately I was the unwilling possessor of a hopelessly torpid liver, which kept growing more and more hopeless as the years went by. It finally became impossible for me to obtain sleep at night unless absolute stillness reigned.
Living in the city, I was disturbed many times at night, so that finally I was sent to the country, and there the least bark of a dog or the sound of a cow bell broke up my light repose and put me into a desperately nervous condition. Matters grew rapidly worse, and finally culminated in a severe illness. When I was convalescent the doctor posi tively forbade my using coffee and recommended

Postum Cereal Food Coffee.
This was a terrible blow, as I was a coffee fiend, but I was weak enough to be sensible, and so I determined to try Postum, although I went at it very unwillingly. I determined to know that it was made right, so I read the directions carefully and made the first cup myself. I was amazed at the rich brown liquid that steamed forth from the coffee pot at luncheon that day, and still more amazed when, upon tasting it, I found I had a most delightful beverage, with a delicious coffee my table from that time on. As the days went by, I gradually noticed a change for the better, in point of health. It took some time to recover from the rack of the nervous system, caused by coffee, but I became more and more conscious that I was sleeping soundly and improving steadily. Naturally, my trritability disappeared. I find myself now with twice, yes, ten times, the ability for enjoyment that I previously had.

One of my friends, upon learning that I had been healed by leaving off coffee and using Postum, ex-claimed and wondered bow I could drink "that I replied that we were very fond of it, indeed, actually preferring it to any brand of cof-fee, whereupon she remarked that coffee was such a beautiful, clear liquid, and had such a deliciou taste, while Postum was muddy and flat. I saw at once that my friend had failed to have her Pustum good Postum. She is very easily prejudiced, so, shortly after, when she came to visit me at the lake, I asked her to try some new coffee, and for two weeks I served Postum to hor, she believing all this time that she was drinking a very high priced and expensive brand of coffee. When, at the end of her visit, I told her that she had been having Postum Food Coffee two, and sometimes three tim station, in Alexandria county, yesterday was John A. Benedict, cashler of the Exchange National Bank at Athens, Ga. Benedict disappeared from his home May 22, and was last heard of at Greenville, S. C., a few days later. The description of the man sent out in a circular says he was dressed in a blue serge coat, with name of E. H. & W. F. Dorsey on coffar, and a blue striped neglige shirt, striped trousers of black and white, black shoes and a straw hat with name of E. H. & W. F. Dorsey, Athens, Ga., within. He carried an open-faced gold watch, Elgin movement, and in-side the case his wife's picture. The watch chain was small and round like cable and chain was small and round have cable and of silver and gold threads, and upon chain some rings. He wore a blood stone seal ring, with "B" cut in it to the white. He was six feet tall, well proportioned, weighing 175 pounds, and was forty-one years old. He was clean shaven, except a light mustache of brown color, had brown eyes and parted his hair accurately in the middle. tache of brown color, had brown eyes and parted his hair accurately in the middle. He had a large scar at corner of left eye and a small rounded, raised one between chin and lower lip, and a deep cleft in chin. His teeth were perfect, regular and well cared for. Upon left forearm was a tattooed bluestar, He was married and had two children, four and seven years old.

MAY HAVE BEEN BENEDICT. Question as to Identity of Man Who

Benedict was in good circumstances, and his friends know of no possible reason for de facto by virtue of actual occupation, and his friends know of no possible reason for his leaving home. It is believed he became mentally deranged as the result of overwork. When Inspector Boardman learned of the finding of the man's body he communicated with the Virginia authorities. The description furnished is such a good one that he believes the question of the man's identity as Benedict will be easily settled.

WIFE'S CHARGES.

FOUND A LOST BROTHER

Search for a Relative Results in Dis-

John Andersen, a native of Denmark, who has been searching for his brother, Julius Andersen, for nearly two years, was rewarded this morning when he found the missing one in St. Elizabeth's Asylum. About two years ago John Andersen, who was then living in Chicago, learned that his missing brother was in New York city and communicated with him. After this relatives in Copenhagen became alarmed about the safety of Julius and asked John to find him. The latter started out on this mission, and, after tracing his movements from place to place, succeeded in locating him in Frederick, Md. Visiting Frederick, he learned that Julius had left there and had probably come to this city. When John reached here this morning he called on Inspector Boardman at police headquarters and learned from the records his brother had been arrested and committed to the insane asylum. He will now endeavor to get possession of his un-fortunate relative and see that he returns to his native country.

SNEAK THIEF GOT $10,000.

Snatched Bills From Boston Bank Window-Was Caught.

A sneak thief entered the Metropolitan National Bank in Boston vesterday and stole $10,000 while the paying teller's attention was drawn away for a moment. The man entered the bank about 11 o'clock. and at the teller's window asked for some directions about sending a money order. The teller gave the information desired, and the stranger stood at the counter, apparently making notes.

Just then the teller was called to another part of the office, and the visitor quickly thrust his arm through the grating of the window and took fifty $100 notes and five $1,000 notes. A young lady stenographer saw the man's action, but he es-robber was subsequently arrested in New York city as he alighted from a train at the Grand Central station.

At police headquarters the prisoner said he was George Shea, twenty-one years old, born in Canada, married, but refused to give his residence. He was recognized as an old offender. He was arrested in New York in September, 1806, for stealing $124 from Zimmermann & Forshay, Wall street bankers. He was arrested in July, 1898, for attempting to steal tewelry Maiden Lane. He was not tried for the first offense; and on the second charge he was not convicted. He has also been arrested in Chicago.

The roll of bills stolen from the Boston tank was untouched. It consisted of two $1,000 bills, two $500 bills, and the remainder in $100 bills. Although he gave his name as Shea, the robber was recognized as Philip Lambele by a letter in his pocket, which he had written to his mother in Chicago.

As Suspicious Characters. Michael Flood and Otto Pearson were today before Judge Kimball as suspicious characters. Flood was sent down for thirty days and Pearson was released. The men were arrested yesterday by Sergeant Montgomery while engaged with a third party in selling medicine on 2d street southwest. The sergeant said he knew Flood had a very unsavory reputation and the accused men were taken into custody. The third member of the party escaped.

J. N. Hunt, an old colored man, told the court that the men named and the one who court that the men named and the one who got away were going from door to door selling bottles of medicine. The fellow whom the sergeant could not arrest called at Hunt's house and sold him a bottle of medicine for 10 cents. He gave the man a dollar note, he said, and the latter went to dollar note, he said, and the latter went to a saloon near by to have it changed, promising to bring Hunt 90 cents. He dtd not return, and, knowing that Flood and Pearson had been with the other follow, he asked the officer to arrest them.

Both Flood and Pearson claimed they had nothing whatever to do with the transaction between Hunt and their former as action between Hunt and their former associate. Judge Kimball said there was no case against Pearson and released him. Flood, because of his admission that he had sold some of the medicine, was sent down

PORTO RICANS PROTEST

It is believed by the local police that the Object to Their Treatment by the United man who committed suicide hear Franconia States Government.

> Burdened by a Tariff More Obnoxious Than Under Spain-Treated as Dependents.

From the New York Times.

The commissioners from Porto Rico to the United States feel, according to Dr. F. Julio Henna of 8 West 40th street, one of their number, that they and theirs in Porto Rico have been treated scandalously by the United States government, and so they have prepared a protest which they hope the American people will read. Dr. M. Zena Gandia, another commissioner, gave out the protest. It follows: "Porto Rico finds itself at this moment in an extraordinary situation. The island is de jure by virtue of the treaty of peace between the United States and Spain, concluded at Paris on December 10, 1898, an integral part of the territory of the United States of America. And, nevertheless, neither its soil, its ports, its commerce, nor its inhabitants are for any practical purpose considered American. The flag of the United States of America floats over the soil of Porto Rico, but it does not make American even the children who are born under its shade. Ships coming from the ports of any continental portion of the United States of America and entering port of Porto Rico do not enter an Ameri-can but a foreign port, and are subject to pay custom duties, tonnage dues, &c.

"The commerce of Porto Rico with the rest of the United States of America instead of being free as the commerce between Massachusetts and Florida, or New York and Louisiana, is burdened by a tariff, heavier, and more observables, then that heavier and more obnoxious than that which was in force when Porto Rico was Spanish, and its commerce was subject to the reciprocity arrangements, which, under the inspiration of Mr. Blaine, were con-cluded in 1890, between the United States and Spain. And although Porto Rico is American, and its government is vested in American officials, and all there is American from the governor general to the health officer of the humblest port of the sland, no protection is given to any Porto Rican except upon condition that it be carefully expressed that he is protected as a native Porto Rican, but not as an Amer-

"If the war which the United States of America waged against Spain for purely humanitarian purposes freed Porto Rico, as it is said, the Porto Rican people do not know as yet of what that freedom consists. They are treated as an inferior, dependent people, needing to be educated and Chris-tianized and civilized, and in the procession of the peace jubilee, ce ebrated with great pomp at Washington, which the President reviewed surrounded by his cabinet and the diplomatic body and the elite of Washing-ton society, no other symbol was made to appear to represent Porto Rico and Porto Rican civilization than a dilapidated little negro boy poorly riding on the back of a not less dilapidated little pony, with the oress.'
"The condition of things in Porto Rico when the government of the United States of America decided to go to war with Spain to enforce the mandate of Congress that Spain should relinquish at once her sov-ereignty over Cuba was by far different from the condition of things which then prevailed in the latter island. 'Porto Rico had never been afflicted as Cuba by war or revolution. Mr. Cushing, Inited States minister at Madrid, could say with reason to Mr. Fish, Secretary of State, on March 1, 1876: 'Porto Rico is a content-ed possession of Spain, having received con-cessions withheld from Cuba, which had been the scene of war for seven years.' (Extract, Documents of the Senate, No. 166, Fifty-fourth Congress, second session, page 105.) Subsequent to Mr. Cushing's statement Porto Rico continued in peace, and its wealth and prosperity, specially in the time which the reciprocity arrangements initiated and carried on by Mr. Blaine were in force, became phenomenal.

"Porto Rico was not by any means a proper subject for American intervention.

If war was carried to its territory by the United States it was ed States it was because Porto Rico was Spanish territory and because it was said that for military reasons hostilities were necessary both in the Greater and Lesser Antilles. And if Porto Rico was ceded by Spain to the United States, not entirely without protest by Spain, it was only because President McKinley, desirous of exhibiting signal generosity to Spain,' relieved her from paying any war indemnity to the United States, but demanded in exchange the cession. (Mr. Day to Duke Almodovar del Rio, July 30, 1898.) "Through that act of signal generosity of President McKinley, resembling that of neas when killing young Lausus, Porto Rico became an American possession.

"The voice of Porto Rico was not heard.
The idea that the Porto Rican people The idea that the Porto Rican people might have something to say on the subject or that a bargain of this kind, no matter how generous on the part of one belligerent, might need at least pro forma the consent of the Porto Rican people was not even thought of. The island and its people were conveyed from one sovereign to another as a form and its eattlesses. another as a farm and its cattle are conveyed from one master to another.
"The signers of the Declaration of Independence of the United States said on July 4, 1776, that they held 'these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among them are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness,' and they added that secure these rights governments are insti-tuted,' and that these governments can only derive 'their just powers from the consent of the governed.' "The Porto Rican people, in asking from the people to whom they have aggregated that the principles of the first enactment to be found in their statute books be applied to them, are rot asking for favors. They are demanding justice."
